BELLE GLADE — PAHOKEE, FL.

A SEMINOLE VILLAGE in miniature was being put together in the form of a diorama Monday at the Lawrence Will Museum by Mrs. Virginia Johannes and her husband, Edward.

Seminole display ready

BELLE GLADE — Visitors to the Lawrence Will Museum this week are finding a complete Seminole Indian village, complete with four chickens and men, women and children involved in a number of occupations.

The village comes in the form of a diorama commissioned by the city Library Board and paid for with funds from the Belle Glade Bicentennial Committee. It was built by Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Johannes of Hypoluxo Island in Lantana.

Mr. and Mrs. Johannes installed the diorama Friday and Monday, gluing in the 47 figurines.

Johannes said the entire diorama, which is a three dimensional still-life made of hand-sculpted figures placed on a table and covered with a plastic shield featuring a backdrop, has been built to quarter inch scale and is as accurate as research could make it.

The couple said the village is a composite of villages described in various records and is designed to represent what Seminole life was like about the turn of the century.

The accuracy is reflected in the fact that while there are no bows and arrows. The Johannes' said the Seminoles may have been unique among American Indians in that they never used the bow for hunting or warfare, being restricted to spears before the white men introduced firearms.

The people in the village are portrayed involved in such pursuits as poling a dugout canoe through a slough, building a dugout with a hand adze, fishing with a spear, doing laundry, hunting, cooking and playing a game called stickball, akin to lacrosse.

Johannes said his wife, Virginia, has built about 20 of the dioramas. They said the one in the Lawrence Will Museum cost about $1,200 and took four months to complete.

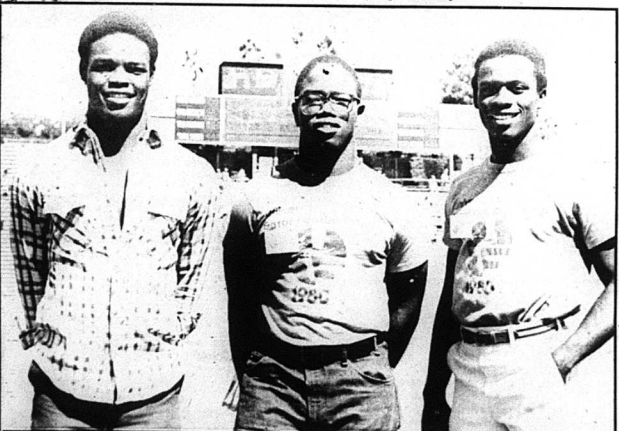

To give an idea of the complexity of the diorama, Mrs. Johannes said there are about 2,000 hand cut plan leaves involved in the landscaping and chicken roofs and there are some 300 figurines of people, animals and implements.

To go along with the diorama, Mrs. Johannes has painted and, except for two boys shown swimming, are clothed in authentic styles used by the Seminoles of the day.

Johannes pointed out that the tabletop village, being at a quarter inch scale, represents just about an acre of land.

To go along with the diorama, Mrs. Johannes has taped a narrative, pointing out the features of the figurines and putting the entire setting into historical perspective. She said she isn't sure how the tape will be presented by the Library Board but that it is an integral part of the presentation.

Housing alternates are discussed here

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE — More possibilities of providing low cost housing in and around the city were explored Tuesday in the second of a series of meetings, with the accent this week being provided by the Palm Beach County Housing Authority.

PBCHA Director Barry Seaman told City Commissioner Dorothy Walker and City Community Development Director Remar Harvin he believes he still has $3.4 million allocated for his use by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) which were originally earmarked for a development in South Bay but which Seaman said he scuttled after complications raised by FmHA and the City of South Bay.

Seaman said the last time he checked with the state FmHA headquarters in Gainesville, about six months ago, the funds were still available and allocated, because, if they were finally refused they would have to be returned to Washington DC and couldn't be used in the state.

The funds, which he said amounted to a $1.8 million loan and $1.6 million grant under the S14 program, could only be used to house migrant farm workers.

He said he would check to see if the funds are still available and allocated but to return what he would want to know what the goals of the Belle Glade Housing Authority are.

BGHA Director David Motes, according to Miss Walker, was supposed to have been present at the meeting but didn't show up. She also said Pahokee Housing Authority Director Randy Mills had been invited but said he had a scheduling conflict.

Harvin is supposed to get in touch with Motes and Mills and advised them of what was discussed during Tuesday's meeting. He will then try to set up another meeting between them, Seaman and himself.

SKIN and GRIN was the order of the day Friday after Glades Day's Gators continued their unbeaten ways with an 8-3 win over second ranked Benjamin, Coaches Dick Schmidt, Byron Walker and Manny Perez didn't even mind when members of the team followed through with a promise to skin their heads when they won. Look out, boosters, you're next! See story and pictures on page 6.

Ag chemical future forecast

By WAYNE WALLACE

A scarcity of caustic soda, faster and more efficient chemical delivery and more government regulation was the forecast delivered at the 1980 Sugarfest Tuesday night.

Representatives from Dow Chemical, Ashland Chemical and Chemagro Chemicals were present to discuss future resource and financial problems in the sugar industry.

Don Kirk, Dow Chemical's Caustic Soda Product Manager said the current scarcity of caustic (a powerful chemical used in mill machinery) can be expected to continue well into the 80s.

"Since caustic is a by-product of chlorine, availability depends on the chlorine industry," Kirk said. "And right now the two major users of chlorine products, housing (PVC) and automobile (vinyl products) are depressed, which cuts back production, and as a result, caustic becomes scarce."

A 26 percent increase in caustic exports also contributed to the shortage, Kirk said. "These countries simply can't afford to produce their own caustic. Right now liquid caustic sells from $220 to $400 a ton overseas compared to $220 a ton in the U.S."

Black market caustic sells in the U.S. at $400 a ton, and is in demand Kirk added.

Unless other uses are found for chlorine products or a viable alternative to caustic soda is found, Kirk said he expects the caustic shortage to continue well into the 80s and advised purchasers to be sure contracts are on a "long-term" basis.

Although caustic may be scarce, Chemical Tank Lines President Karl Konick said it will be delivered safely.

"We have drivers trained especially to haul and unload caustic, soda, muriatic acid and trucks designed for the specific chemical," he said.

Each of the 33 trucks is constructed of stainless steel, carbon steel or contains a rubberized lining and exterior for protection from muriatic acid. The trucks cost approximately $43,000 each, Konick said.

While the chemicals may be getting to the mills safely, disposing of them is another problem. Bill Baird, Ashland Oil Sales Representative discussed the new Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA).

Baird said that of 50,000 chemical dumps in the U.S., 2,000 are health hazards and that only 10 percent of the 77 billion pounds of chemical waste generated each year is disposed of properly.

"That is the reason RCRA is being formed. It deals specifically with the management of waste material which may be hazardous."

The RCRA, which becomes law on Nov. 19, 1980 defines hazardous waste as: chemicals with certain characteristics of hazard (toxic, ignitable, corrosive, reactive); is listed as a waste from specific or non-specific sources; is listed commercial chemical product or manufacturing intermediate that is sometimes discarded.

The RCRA establishes specific guidelines for generators, transporters of hazardous wastes and for the treatment storage and disposal of such wastes, Baird said. Formerly legislation concerning hazardous wastes was handled by various government agencies such as the Hazardous Material Transportation Act, the Toxic Substances Control Act and the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Penalties imposed for violation of the RCRA are stiff, Baird said. Civil fines of up to $25,000 a day and additional criminal fines and imprisonment are provided for anyone who transports wastes without a permit; treats, stores or disposes of any hazardous waste without a permit; makes any false statement or representation for purposes of compliance with regulations.

There will be three major impact areas of the RCRA, Baird said.

"There will be fewer disposal sites available under the stringent RCRA standards, storage, treatment and disposal cost will increase because of the decrease in facilities, and some may find themselves facing civil and possibly criminal fines."

for pair of Raiders

Togetherness counts

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE — Togetherness will apparently be the key for whichever college football coach is lucky enough to recruit the one-two offensive punch of the unbeaten Glades Central Raiders.

Halfback Greg Bain and wide receiver Jessie "Jet" Hester have been contacted by more than 40 colleges and seen 12 coaches personally, making them the most heavily recruited pair of players in Glades Central's history but they said Monday they'll probably go together wherever they wind up.

And with solid offers from the likes of Florida, Florida State, Miami, Ohio State and the University of Michigan, they can virtually write their own ticket.

Considering their college contacts and the ink expended on them in area newspapers, it should come as no surprise that the two are already being recruited heavier than any other players in South Florida and possible throughout the state.

It should also come as no surprise that Bain and Hester have a lot in common and if Bain began receiving recognition earlier in his career, it could be because Hester was concentrating on basketball first and didn't start to come into his own until relatively late in last year's season.

Bain's potential was seen when he was in the ninth grade when Junior Varsity Coach Graham Frost said he could wind up being the best player ever at Glades Central, going on the say he was not only a good athlete but a "coachable."

He was overshadowed during his sophomore year, the year Coach Ben McCoy took over the reins of the Raiders, by Johnnie Rowe, the sensational running back who transferred to the local high school from Germany, but came into his own last year, when he was named the Palm Beach Post's Offensive Player of the Year as a junior by running more than 1,700 yards.

Bain was probably responsible more than any other player for the fact last year's Raiders were 9-1 in the regular season and made it to the state playoffs before being knocked out of the state championship by Milton.

He had just learned before the interview Monday that he had been chosen the Channel 12 Athlete of the Week for the second time this year after racking

Opinion

Say it ain't so, Joe.
There I was, sitting in my own office and minding my own business when in traipse Joe Hughes and tad-de-ah! presents me with what he claimed was the world's only solar powered pen.
I don't know how long I can stand it.
If it's not hot air balloons, it's laughing pillows. If it ain't those little balsa wood gliders taking me back to my childhood, it's a little sneaky thief of a bank with a hand that snatches small coins from the top and yanks 'em inside.

Now, it's a solar powered ballpoint.

Well, what the heck can you expect in this day of energy conservation? We even voted (those of us who bothered to go to the polls) on an energy conservation amendment to the state constitution Tuesday, a neat little package offered to us by the state legislature, compliments of local government.

But I don't know if I'm really ready for a solar pen that, "costs nothing to operate, zero to maintain, and best of all there are no batteries to replace-not NOW, not EVER!"

The card on which the pen is impaled even goes on to name some "exclusive features" that make all other pens obsolete.

The ink supply is protected from radiation by a special silver cartridge and is clearly visible at all times. If the refill should ever disappear, you'd know it instantly.

The cartridge is visible from any direction. No matter which way you face, or what season affects the climate, the pen is totally unaffected and always READY TO WRITE!

This is one pen you don't ever have to worry about recharging. It lasts a lifetime. Note-nothing is said about the ink supply.

The mechanically operated mechanism works day or night-even when the sun is down. "This pen can still operate on mere moonlight."

I'm sure glad they didn't say moonshine. Nobody and nothing works very efficiently for very long on that.

This pen is so great, "you'll never again have to worry about your pen failing on a cloudy day (oh, relief, relief. That's always bothered me so much), at night or during an eclipse. With this pen, you're ready to write, any where, any language...write checks for any amount...for One Million Dollars or even more."

I'd think they'd at least include a disclaimer should the checkwriter's checks bounce but the Solar Pen is so good, they're apparently accepting responsibility for overdrafts too.

But what I really appreciated was the fact the pen is packaged in the same material, aluminum foil, that traveled to the moon with the nation's astronauts. I can't stand it.

at Chamber of Commerce banquet

Lawton Chiles due next week

BELLE GLADE--U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles will head the list of speakers Thursday, Oct. 16 at the Chamber of Commerce's Annual Awards Banquet, for which tickets are now on sale at the Chamber Building on South Main Street.

The banquet is slated to begin at 8 p.m. and will be held at the Belle Glade Elks Lodge No. 1716 at 300 S.E. Ave. E. Tickets, which are priced at $15 per person, have been moving slow according to Helen McCormick at the Chamber office.

The highlights of the banquet, as usual, will be the presentation of the Citizen of the Year, Police Officer of the Year and Agri-Businessman of the Year awards. The toastmaster will again be Bob Lee, vice president of community affairs for the United States Sugar Corporation in Clewiston. The welcome will be given by Sam Lovell, last year's Citizen of the Year.

The installation of officers will be conducted for the first time by Dr. Cecil Conley, provost at Palm Beach Junior College-Glades.

Sen. Chiles earned the nickname of "Walkin' Lawton" in 1970 when he decided to build name recognition and a following among the voters by walking the length of the state.

A survey had shown only 12 per cent of the people in the state recognized his name and he was given little chance to win until he had virtually completed his 1,003 mile hike.

He began his political career with six years in the state House of Representatives and then served four years in the State Senate.

Chiles is a member of the Budget Committee, the Senator Appropriations Committee, the Governmental Affairs Committee and is chairman of the Senate Aging Committee.

He authored the 1976 federal government in the sunshine law, generally considered to be the biggest accomplishment of his freshman term, and has more recently been using his committee assignments as a three-pronged weapon to cut federal spending. Dennis Beal, a member of Chiles' staff, estimated

Lovell, Taylor to speak

BELLE GLADE--School Board District 7 candidates Sam Lovell and Lavoise Taylor, who will face each other in the Nov. 4 runoff, will be the featured speakers at noon, Oct. 14 at the Glades Forum on the Palm Beach Junior College-Glades campus.

The public is invited to attend the forum, which is being sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa Honor Fraternity.

Campus Provost Cecil Conley said he understands each of the two candidates will be allowed a certain amount of time to speak and will then field questions from the audience.

The Glades Forum was originated at the campus as a public service, with the idea of providing programs in which the public would have an interest.

Lovell led the balloting in the Sept. 9 primary but a third candidate, Tom Pierson, drew enough votes to keep Lovell from winning the seat in the primary. Whichever candidate wins the election on Nov. 4, this will be the first time in several years when the Glades will have direct representation on the School Board. District 7 was created with that purpose in mind.

Chiles' investigation of the General Services Administration has resulted in the savings of more than $200 million for the public. Two areas of purchases Chiles has homed in on have been meat purchases by the military and office furniture. More recently, Beal said, Chiles has begun to home in on waste in the Small Business Administration.

"It that if we give them this much money, they might not show up for work for a couple of weeks."

"On the other hand," Gann replied, "if we don't give it to them, they might sue the city."

The only question came from Commissioner Ray Sullivan, who wanted to know why the interest rate was calculated at 7.5 percent rather than the 5.25 percent being paid by banks and savings and loan associations.

Gann said it was a compromise figure based on what was available to the city if it had been investing the amount in high-yield investments, noting that interest has been as high as 14 percent for high yield bonds over the past four years.

Gann also said the matter was something the city had been considering without action for the past three years, since the old pension plan was dissolved.

In another financial action, the commission adopted the 1980-81 budget, based on last year's 9.59 mill property tax rate and the $20.56 million worth of property in the city, minus the amount eligible for homesteaded exemption.

The budget was broken into four parts, including the general fund, where all the property tax goes, the water and sewer fund, the sanitation fund and the federal revenue sharing fund.

"We've put a lot of work into this budget," Mayor Tanner said after the resolution enacting it passed unanimously, "and Mrs. City Clerk Virginia Walker and Mr. (Acting City Manager Lomax) Harnelle have worked long and hard on it."

"We've made a lot of cuts," he went on, "and one of the cuts I didn't want to make was in employee salary increases. I've proposed we consider this about six months from now and, if possible, give the employees another raise." In other action, the commissioners awarded a bid of $4,500 to Ramon Capote, Inc. to clear away the remains of South Bay Elementary School, which was burned by the city a month ago, and authorized advertisements for bids to collect the city's garbage and trash.

The rule states the instrument can be held on the lap of the seated pupil if it's no wider than the body or higher than the shoulder of the students.

The instrument cannot be placed on or under the seat or in the bus aisle.

If the rule is allowed to stand kids that need to practice after school or on weekends with their instruments must rely on parents and friends to transport their instruments to and from school.

I wonder what the band will do on Friday night football games and other scheduled appearances when they must use school buses for transportation to and from these events.

With inflation as it is, and budgets being cut in both the private and business sector, I doubt if Palm Beach County Schools can afford to purchase vans for each school in the county with a music program to transport instruments that are not allowed on the school bus.

So far School bus drivers in the west area have not been informed of the rule and are still allowing students and their instruments on the bus. Thank God for that.

How I See It

by Alma Henry

Parents at Jefferson Davis Middle School took a stand this week to remove one of the Palm Beach County School boards most ridiculous policy that forbids a student from carrying his band instrument on the school bus unless it fits snugly on his lap.

According to one band director if the rule stands, some kids would not be allowed to carry a flute or a clarinet because of the students size.

Together

up three touchdowns against previously unbeaten Cardinal Newman Friday night.

Bain, at 18, said he stands 5'11" and weighs 185 pounds. A solid-looking athlete, he bench presses 235 pounds and runs to 40 in 4.5 seconds.

Hester, 17, has the same time in the 40 yard sprint. He's 6'0" and weighs in at 185 pounds.

Hester really began to mature in the second half of the 1979 season, earning recognition not only as a wide receiver but as a defending secondary backfielder and on the special punt and kickoff receiving teams.

Particularly spectacular play during the playoffs last year earned him a slot on the All-State team, along with Bain, 1980 senior center Thomas Lockett and interior linemen Charles "Bull" Miller and Wilford Morgan, both of whom have gone on to play at Bethune Cookman.

"They're two super ball players," Coach McCoy said. "They rank with the top ball players on the coast. They're a good asset to have around because they give you two dimensions of a good ball club in the run, the pass and punt returns (both Bain and Hester are being used this year for punt returns and defensive backfielders).

"I'm glad they're playing for me instead of against me," McCoy went on.

Bain and Hester, along with center Thomas Lockett, were flown to Gainesville Saturday in what was the first of six official visits to colleges attempting to recruit them under NCAA rules.

In Gainesville, the trio was hosted by the University of Florida Gators, who were beaten by Louisiana State. This Saturday, they'll travel to Tallahassee as guests of Florida State to watch the Seminoles take on Pittsburgh.

"Asked if Florida's defeat had influenced their impression of the Gators, Bain replied, "It's still a good school. They've got a good program."

"Besides," he grinned, "it doesn't matter where we go to school, they'll have a winning football team. I'm the best player in the world and if they stop me, Jet'll catch passes on 'em. Nobody can stop us both."

The pair said their initial reaction to the coaches and players who were their hosts over the weekend was the friendliness and the sheer size of the players.

"The only thing," Bain said, "is that Jet's going to have to work on the weights. Those guys are big."

Hester said he was particularly impressed that even stars such as Dock Lucky were friendly. He said Lucky was one player he'd particularly wanted to meet because he'd heard so much about the Fort Pierce native. At 264 pounds and with the ability to press 600 pounds, Lucky is the strongest player in college ball.

"He'd have to do better than that if he was running after me," Hester commented about the lack Lucky runs the 40 in just one tenth of a second slower than Hester and Bain. "He wouldn't be just a tenth of a second behind me."

"Yeah," Bain laughed. "If he was running after me, he'd have to be somewhere in the trees if he wanted to be right behind me."

The two said they haven't made up their minds yet about where they're going to attend school, that they're keeping their options open. Unlike some players in the past, grades should be no problem for either one. Bain said he is maintaining a 2.8 grade point average and Hester's grades are 2.6. Teammate Lockett's grades are at 3.9.

Asked how they see the rest of the Raiders' season, both players said Gaines Central would be 10-0 for the year and would better against Milton should the two schools clash again for the state championship.

"I think the coaches will be ready for them this time," Bain said. "We hadn't seen them last year but now we have and I think we can beat them."

The two also agreed both that they hadn't personally been changed by all the publicity they've received and that they feel their teammates should be receiving more recognition.

"Look at (Willie) McCoy," Bain said. "He's been doing real good this year."

"They should be looking at the line more too," Hester added. "They're real quick this year but nobody's been noticing them at all. If it weren't for guys like Lockett, we couldn't run or pass."

Asked how they see the rest of the Raiders' season, both players said Gaines Central would be 10-0 for the year and would better against Milton should the two schools clash again for the state championship.

"I'd like to be a businessman," Bain said, "traveling all the time and making the big money and meeting different people."

Before that happens, however, both intend to do some more running for Gaines Central, even though Hester said he'll let Bain do it all on the football field. ("I get hit only once in a while but Greg gets hit all the time.")

The extra running will come during track season, when both will be running the 100 yard dash and the 440 relay. Bain will also be running on the mile relay team and Hester will be running the 220 yard dash.

Hester ran the 100 last season for the first time, posting a 9.6 second time. He said he's shooting for 9.4 or 9.5 this season.

"And nobody's faster than us on the 440 relay," Bain said, "but then, that's where they'll be running as a team, just like in football."

Students plan lunch week

Gove Elementary School students will participate in School Lunch Week October 13 to October 17 as part of a national event in which children enjoy the same menu each day nationwide.

The School Lunch Week is designed to acquaint the public with the lunch program and make parents aware of lunch nutritional values.

A theme menu is planned for each day. There will be an All-American lunch, a Mexican lunch and an Italian lunch. City and county commissioners will be invited to the lunches, and parents are invited to eat with their children.

The school lunch program is 45 years old, beginning with a group of parents bringing hot soup to school for their children.

Adult

Education class set

The Gove Elementary School is sponsoring an adult education General Equivalency Diploma (GED) preparation class. The class will run from seven-thirty to nine-thirty on Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning October 7. All interested persons are invited to attend the first class meeting.

Pahokee HS

FFA plans gun drawing

The Pahokee High School Future Farmers of America (FFA) is sponsoring a drawing for a shotgun to help raise funds to send four members to the FFA National convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

The shotgun is a Remington 12 gauge, model 1600 Automatic and a donation of $5 is requested for tickets. The winners name will be drawn at halftime during the Pahokee Jupiter game on November 7. The winner need not be present to win.

PBJC plans

theatre audition

Auditions in dance, voice, instrumental music and drama will be held Monday and Tuesday, October 13 and 14 at Palm Beach Junior College Glades campus in room SC 102 at seven thirty p.m. All applicants are advised to bring individual materials. CHIROPRACTIC TODAY SCIATICA

You may be sure that anyone who has suffered through a full blown case of sciatica will agree that the pain is one of life's most agonizing experiences. Because there is no other pain quite like it, it is difficult to make a comparison; but the worst toothache imaginable is of about the same magnitude as the devastating pain of acute sciatica.

Sciatica is a frequently misunderstood and underrated disease condition. It is often mistakenly called sciatica rheumatism. Some refer to it as lumbago, while others think of sciatica as being any low back or hip pain.

Actually, sciatica is a painful inflammation of the sciatic nerve which supplies the tissues of the thigh, lower leg, and foot. It is most often caused by a pinching of one or more spinal nerve roots between spinal bones (vertebrae) of the lower back.

The pain of sciatica is so excruciating that sufferers cannot even find relief by confining themselves to bed. Pains in the low back and the backs of the legs result from inflammation of the large sciatic nerve. This in turn is due to spinal imbalance which causes a patient to lean to one side.

Correction of the cause of the spinal imbalance results in relief of the condition, which can be accomplished through chiropractic treatment. Phone today.

Your tackle box, tackle, and you

by Lorne Racicot

For the boater who is also a fisherman there is another most important item to be looked into: your fishing equipment.

You have been encouraged to get your rig in top shape. What about your rods, reels and tackle box? A look into most tackle boxes makes one think of "Fibber McGee's Closet," except that the mess is on a smaller scale.

Turning the handle of a friend's reel the damaged or would swear it was telling me to stop. It whines of protest were nerve racking to say the least. The poor thing hadn't been cleaned, oiled or adjusted since who knows when.

Now is the time to get at that tackle box and straighten it out. Replace those rusted or bent hooks, file those that need it.

Check out the eye rings to ensure they are properly seated and won't pull out when "Mr. Big" latches on. Clean tarnished spoons and other lures. You might think that if the lures are dull and dingy it won't make any difference to the fish but why take the chance. Properly conditioned lures even make a tackle box look better.

Now is also the time to replace broken or otherwise useless items while they are still in good supply. Dealers are stocking up now and a wide variety of lures and patterns are available.

As demand increases the selection will decrease. Carefully examine your rod guides for roughness or cracking. Guides in this condition can be a disaster to lines and in short order. The only corrective action in this situation is to replace them.

When you have a situation where the rod is damaged or broken near the tip and you are going to cut it off and replace the guide do not sand the rod and down to where the original tip can be put back. This only weakens the tip of the rod where almost any unusual strain will only break it again. It also usually means goodbye to the fish. Get a new tip guide and ensure that it is of the proper size. Sand only the original coating off the rod before applying the adhesive. This is necessary as most adhesives do not adhere well to original coatings.

Next examine the reel seat. Make certain that it is free of all debris which tends, some times, to collect in the recess. Clean and oil all parts of the reel seat, where the reel is seated, paying particular attention to the locking screw and/or lug.

In the event the rod itself is chipped or cracked or the reel seat is in otherwise poor condition it is not a big job to correct this. All that is necessary is that you carefully sand off the old coating and apply a good grade of rod varnish, following the directions of the manufacturer to the letter.

A reel, in good working order, is a joy to use. One that isn't should be left at home.

long enough at least to fix it. Screws have a tendency to work loose. If they work loose enough they can do irreparable damage to gears and other vital parts.

Accumulations of even minute deposits of sand and other grit can destroy a good reel in no time at all. Most have the ability to take a reel apart, clean, adjust and oil it. If you have the ability but are still not sure, get out the manual that came with the reel and be guided by the "explosion view" of it. If you are still not sure take the reel to your tackle dealer and he will do a first-class job.

When you do take your reel apart be certain to do it on a surface that will prevent parts from rolling or slipping off. Too many times parts have a habit of disappearing before your very eyes and you can't put it back together correctly without all the parts.

Another word of caution: do not take your reel apart where the floor of the room you are using has a rug. A part falling onto a thick napped rug is like looking for the proverbial needle in a haystack. The lighter napped rugs are easier to find. Use an old towel, well preferable, it will give a good background to set out parts in the correct order and they will not tend to roll or slip off.

Many types of cleaners are used. They range from carbon-tet to gasoline (white), mineral spirits and a long list of commercial cleaners. Every fisherman has his favorite one. Sometimes a combination of fluids.

Care is the most important aspect of cleaning a reel. Parts should not be handled roughly and care must be taken not to distort them. When re-assembling the reel, ensure that no part is being forced into position.

Reel parts today are highly calibrated and will only go back in the proper place when positioned correctly. All forcing will do is bend or distort the part and where its practical use is forever gone. An old toothbrush is a great instrument for cleaning parts, especially the internal gears and level wind. When wiping parts off use a lint-free cloth. Anything else can give a lot of problems.

When it comes to lubricating your reel don't and I repeat DON'T overoil or grease.

There are many good greases available. Most are formulated for our climate therefore they are not too light nor too heavy. Oil is in the same category. There are many good ones on the market. Grease and oil exactly as directed by the manufacturer's manual. Adjust also as indicated by the manual until you are thoroughly familiar with the reel.

Properly cleaned, adjusted and lubricated a reel will not only give excellent service but will do so for years to come. When you finally hook the big bass you have been looking for a long, long time it is nice to know that one thing won't be at fault, if you lose it, it's your reel.

When not in use, keep your reels in a plastic or other container. Many good reel covers are available and are designed to not only keep dust, lint, etc. out of your reel but protect the rod butt and reel seat.

Your line and its condition is the only link between you and the fish. Lines that are not in good condition have left many a fisherman sadly shaking his head while he would be quarry swims away, usually with an expensive lure in his mouth as well as a length of line.

There is no denying the fact that lines must be replaced periodically. They deteriorate from a number of causes such as "feathering" from continual contact with grass, weeds or other debris. This means that though you start out with, say, 20 pound test, this test strength is not going to remain constant.

Certainly there will be sections of the line that will retain its original strength but not all will. The business end of the line takes a not inconsiderable beating in use thus reducing the test strength. While fishing, it is good practice to periodically break or cut off 18 to 24 inches of line. This is the section that takes the most abuse.

Keep in mind that when a rod guide or tip has to be replaced, more often than not, the faulty guide or tip has materially weakened the line. There are many reasons why lines "go bad". Our climatic conditions, for one, are hard on lines, especially those of the monofilament variety. And monofilament lines are probably used on well over 90 percent of all reels.

Some fishermen have developed the habit of reversing their lines on the reel spool regularly. This practice will extend the life somewhat but not forever. When a line shows evidence of wear and tear replace it. Remember, there are no "good" cheap lines.

Save the average bass rod and reel combination represents an investment of perhaps $100 or more it just doesn't make sense to spool a reel with cheap line. Always carry a spare spool with you.

Some lures tend to twist line whether a snap swivel is used or not. Sometimes it is caused by swivel failure and at other by the action of the lure on retrieve. This twisting makes casting very difficult at times, particularly when casting into the wind. In this instance, about the only practical cure is to remove the lure and snap swivel and drag about half of the line or the spool behind your boat for two or three minutes.

A speed of four or five miles an hour will take out the twists. Retie your terminal tackle and you are back in business. Keep in mind that continual twisting will weaken a line severely.

When you are alone in a boat or on land and do not have that second pair of hands to assist you in putting on a new line just scoop up a container of water and put the new spool in it. This will enable you to re-spool your reel unassisted and it is amazing what the drag of the water will do to keep line from falling off the spool in bunnels. So, make it a habit to check your line frequently, straighten it when necessary and replace before it fails at the wrong time.

Tip of the week

By Lorne Racicot

Ever notice how smooth the drag is on most good reels when you first purchase them? Ever notice, after they have been in use for a time, that the drag often tends to become anything but smooth? Can you recall a time when the first run of a fish actually caused the drag to grab and oft times caused the line to snap?

The answers to the above are almost always, yes. The main reason this happens is that when fishermen finish using the reel for the day they fail to loosen off the drag completely. Failure to do so exerts continual pressure on the drag washer to the point where it becomes distorted, flattened and brittle.

The only cure is immediate replacement. Drags will function smoothly and reliably for a long time if the practice of loosening off the drag each time you use the reel is faithfully carried out.

In our fishing for bass in Lake Okechobee where 20 pound test line is the norm and drags are tightened down as much as practicable, due to heavy marine and other growth, the strain on a drag is magnified to an extreme degree.

In more open waters the drag is usually set at about 25% of the line's test strength. In our water drags are tightened to 75% per cent and more of the test strength of the line. So give your reel a break. Loosen that drag after each usage.

Area fishing report

Bass fishing was reported good almost everywhere on the lake during the past week, but panfishing was spotty in places, according to local marina operators.

Jim Challenton of J-Mark Fish Camp in Belle Glade said bass fishing "excellent," and noted that Ken Baumeister with an Atlanta party brought in 17 bass up to eight pounds on shiners.

Live shiners in the open water pepperglass have been doing well, Clewiston said.

On Saturday, Oct. 4, eight fish were caught by the same party, the largest weighing nine pounds. The bait was shiners. No panfish were caught during the week, with the exception of one angler who brought in a bucketful.

Mrs. Richard Vance of Angler's Marina in Clewiston said that most of the fishermen who ventured out this past week did well, particularly along the West Wall.

Tolson Durn and Glen Jones of Clewiston caught 20 bass total of 96 pounds. Sunday, the duo boated 12 fish, weighing 60 pounds. Live shiners was the bait that worked.

Speck, shellcracker, and beams were also reported being caught.

Cheerly Burgess of the Big Bass Lodge in Lakeport said that Stafford Burgess caught 11 fish Sunday, the largest weighing four pounds.

She reported that a party led by Ernie Glover caught their limit during the week, the largest weighing in at seven pounds.

Some speckled perch were caught, but there were no reports of shellcracker. Favorite fishing spots this past week were Moonshine Bay and the Monkey Box.

Ducks and the point system

The daily bag limit for ducks is read when the point value of the last bird is known, when added to the sum of the point values of the other ducks already taken during that day exceeds 100 points.

Clip out the following and carry it with you: Blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, pintail, gadwall, widgeon, shoveler, scaup (bluebill), American merganser, red-breasted merganser and all sea ducks are 10 points each. 25 points are assigned for each ring-necked duck.

ruddy duck, buffhead, goldeneye and drake mallard. 70 points are assigned to each redhead, hen mallard, black duck, Florida duck, wood duck and hooded merganser. 100 points is assigned to each Fulvous tree duck and canvasback. The bag limit for coots is 15 per hunter. Taking brant or geese is prohibited. It behooves one to know his DUCKS.

Just a reminder - the statewide season for ducks and coots is November 26 through December 7 and December 13 through January 19, 1981. There are certain restrictions in Leon County and that part of Lake Miccosukee in Jefferson County if you intend to hunt either of the above check with your Florida Wildlife Officer or at any office of the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission for details. Statewide the shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset when hunting ducks or coots during the season.

Generosity begets generosity

By Lorne Racicot
This item from East coast press is worth retelling.

Thanks to the family in the blue and white inboard motor boat they are home safely. When the engine in our broken-down, faded yellow outboard motorboat wouldn't start in the middle of Barnes Sound Monday, they stopped and towed us to Gilbert's Fish Camp dock. They refused to accept anything more than our gratitude. To thank these good people we are sending the money we would have liked to give them to C.A.R.E. in New York City. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Loker. Miami Herald.

It is nice to read such an article. It also brings to mind the fact that courtesy and consideration for others has not gone completely out of style. Such action has always been the tradition among more knowledgeable boaters. Unfortunately, there are some that while they may be knowledgeable, certainly never show it. Over the years, I have known many boaters who were only too happy to lend a helping hand to those who were in trouble without any thought of reward. I like to think those in that category sleep very soundly at night. May those who are in this category enjoy many years of trouble free boating. For those who demand payment for rendering the least bit of assistance I can only say, smarten up - you too may need help one of these days.

Mourning dove hunting changes

Dove hunters will be able to begin the first phase of dove season at noon Saturday, Oct. 4. During this phase, which runs through Nov. 2 shooting hours will remain from noon to sunset.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission has announced a change that will be effective for the 2nd and 3rd phases which run from Nov.8-23 and Dec.13-Jan. 4.

During the last two phases, hunting for doves will be one half hour before sunrise to sunset. Fred Starnbery, director of the Division of Wildlife, said the commission wanted that the effects of all day dove shooting hours be studied this season during the two phases and the results presented during public meetings next January.

Hunter safety important

Col. Robert M. Brantley of The Game and Freshwater Fish Commission brings this timely message. "We trust that all persons who participate in the season will be considerate of hunters and non-hunters alike.

It is very important that hunters taking to the waterways, wood, forests and fields this season be careful to hunt within the law. Complete hunting information, including shooting hours, days, special areas for hunts, types of wildlife to be taken and bag limits that vary statewide are available from the Commission offices in Tallahassee, Panama City, Lake City, Ocala, Lakeland, West Palm Beach and Miami."

Logger head turtles to be featured on 'Those Amazing Animals'

Some of Florida's green and loggerhead sea turtles are twice blessed. First they got a head start on life through a Department of Natural Resources turtle restoration project. Now they really hit the big time as featured performers in an upcoming segment of "Those Amazing Animals."

The one-hour show is tentatively scheduled to air at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 12, over ABC-TV stations. Regularly starring on the show are Burgess Meredith, Jim Stafford and Patricia Presley. Ross Witham, marine biologist in charge of the Jensen Beach Green Turtle Restoration Project carried out by DNR's Stuart Field Laboratory, also appears in the segment with the turtles he has studied for 25 years.

Featured on the show is his current project, begun in 1971 to test the feasibility of head-starting baby green turtles, an endangered species. Threatened loggerhead turtles also get a headstart from Witham and his staff. They study the management of sea turtles and the impact of man-made coastal development on them.

A chance for the turtles to be on network television is welcome publicity for the turtle project. "Public education is the most important aspect of our program," Witham stressed, commending the public for helping to save eggs and baby turtles. "Ocean front property owners have been some of the best protectors of the turtles. We've had little old ladies tie down the sand in front of beach beach-cleaning equipment to prevent them from crushing nests." Teams of researchers were fitted carrying newly laid turtle eggs for incubating and hatching in the laboratory. The young turtles are tagged and released at six months to a year of age and tracked to determine their oceanic survival rate, growth and dispersal.

Raiders, Gators ranked and unbeaten

Bain scores 11th TD

BEILE GLADE — Glades Central High School's football team rolled to its fourth win of the season Friday night after previously undefeated Cardinal Newman, leaving Atlantic on Oct. 17 as the only team between the Raiders and the District 14AAA title and the state playoffs.

Glades Central's offense rolled up a total of 357 yards compared to the Crusaders' 181 and built their seasonal record to four wins and no losses while amassing 189 points to their opponents' 33, largely on the running of Greg Bain and the passing combination of Jacob Rhames and Jessie Hester.

Bain carried the ball 19 times for 170 yards and scored three touchdowns while "Jet" Hester caught seven passes for seven attempts, for 136 yards offense and one touchdown.

Coach Ben McCoy said he'd thought the Raiders would score more points but other than the game went about as expected. He said the Raiders were hurt because center Thomas Lockett, hurt during the Jupiter game, rode the game out on the bench.

"We played a good ball game," McCoy said, "sloppy but good. We have a lot of young players and they're playing good ball so I can't complain."

The Raider defense again made itself felt early and often as the Crusaders were forced to turn the ball over on seven times: six on fumbles and once on an interception.

It was fumble on the first play from scrimmage, after the Crusaders had accepted the opening kickoff, that set up the first score of the game.

Recovering on the Cardinal Newman 37 yard line, the Raider defense forced a fumble on the Crusaders' 15 yard line, with Bain scoring from five yards out on a fourth and goal situation with 7:59 left in the game.

Taking the following kickoff, the Crusaders responded in kind. Newman running back Greg Jacobs broke open a big play from his own 15 to the Raider 45 on the first play from scrimmage and the officials tackled on another 15 to the Raider 25 yard line. Two plays later, Jefferson picked up another 17 yards to the five, quarterback Tony Walker pushed it first to the one and then in to score two plays later. Both the PATs following those scores were good and a new game was underway with 6:41 left in the first quarter.

Hester fumbled the ball on the first play from scrimmage after the following kickoff, setting up another scoring drive for the Crusaders on the Raider 36 yard line.

Jacobs and Jefferson ran two plays each in the next series, with Jefferson pounding into the end zone from 12 yards out to cap the four play, 36-yard drive and score. The PAT was good again and the Raiders found themselves trailing for the first time this season, on the short end of a 14-7 score, with 3:31 left in the first period.

That unusual situation lasted exactly two minutes and four seconds, although Cardinal Newman kicked off from the Raider 45 yard line because of a penalty the Raiders incurred during the previous try for extra point and the Crusader recovered an onside kick at the Raider 35 yard line. After making eight yards on the first two downs, the Crusaders fumbled away the ball and the Raiders recovered on their own 30 yard line. One play later, Rhames connected with Hester for a 70-yard scoring bomb. Rhames kicked the extra point and it was 14-0 all going into the second quarter.

That second period was highlighted by a comedy of errors in the opening minutes beginning on the first play from scrimmage after Newman punted down to the Glades Central 36.

Rhames fumbled the ball away at the 36 and Newman punted down to the Raider 17 before things really got lively.

The Crusaders coughed up the ball at the 17. On the following play, the Raiders fumbled it back to Newman on the 17, followed on the next play by another fumble and recover at the 12, followed on the next play by a pass interception back at Central's 17 yard line where it had all begun . . . four turnovers in four plays.

The Glades Central defense poured on the pressure during the next series, holding the Crusaders to a 10 yard pickup on first down, breaking up a pass play on second and nine and sacking the quarterback at the 25 on third and, when Newman tried to convert on a 4th and 19 situation, at the 32, turning the ball over for a second time.

The Raider defense forced a fumble on the Crusaders' 15 yard line, with Bain scoring from five yards out on a fourth and goal situation with 7:59 left in the game.

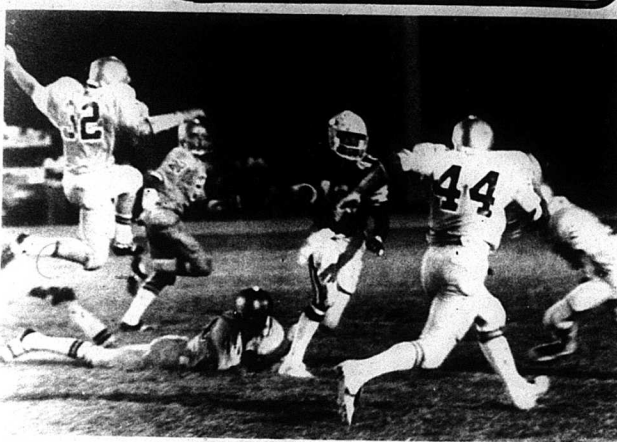

Taking the following kickoff, the Crusaders responded in kind. Newman running back Greg Jacobs broke open a big play from his own 15 to the Raider 45 on the first play from scrimmage and the officials tackled on another 15 to the Raider 25 yard line. Two plays later, Jefferson picked up another 17 yards to the five, quarterback Tony Walker pushed it first to the one and then in to score two plays later. The PAT was good again and the Raiders found themselves trailing for the first time this season, on the short end of a 14-7 score, with 3:31 left in the control in the fourth quarter, allowing the Raiders possession for only five plays throughout the period.

The Raiders' next game is Friday night at Twin Lakes, returning home Oct. 17 to face Atlantic.

Hello there, fishing fans. Once again, we meet to brag about the one that didn't get away.

The Belle Glade area of Lake Okeechobee had its share of glory this past week with fine catches of bass, speckled perch, catfish and bluegills.

The rim canal from Slim's Fish Camp to the Lake Harbor locks is still producing good limits of specks. Live minnows fished from 3 to 14 feet seems to be the ticket, speckled perch, catfish and bluegills.

GATOR COACH GETS the buzz after defeating Benjamin High School 8-3 last Friday night. The coaches vowed to shave their scalps if the team could defeat second ranked Benjamin.

GDS beats Bucs

By Wayne Wallace

Guts, determination and a little luck were the key ingredients in the defensive battle that led to the Glades Day Gators 8-3 come from behind upset victory over second-ranked Benjamin High School last Friday.

"This is the biggest win of my coaching career up to date," Gator head coach Byron Walker said. It was the first time the Gators' best the Buccaneers in their three-year district rivalry.

The first half was dominated by the defenses as the Gators forced three fumbles, two interceptions and sacked Buccaneer quarterback Rob Stalcup once for a five-yard loss.

The Buccaneer defense forced one fumble and sacked Gator quarterback Nacho Bueno once for a seven yard loss, which effectively eliminated the only Gator threat of the first half, when they missed a 43-yard field goal attempt.

Benjamin mounted two determined drives, but both were stopped short by interceptions as Jason Shelton intercepted Stalcup on the Gator ten-yard-line and just before the half Greg Chancey intercepted a 25-yard pass on the Gator 23-yard line.

The second half began bleakly for the Gators as the Buccaneers seemed determined to keep their number two position.

After recovering a fumble on the Gator 41-yard-line, the Bucs marched down to the 25-yard-line before stalling out. The Gators pushed back to the own Buc 45 before punting it away after losing a third and two opportunity on a procedure penalty.

An 11-yard run by Mark Eisey, a 17-yard pass to Steve Nicklaus, another 13 yard pick-up by Eisey and a few off-tackles and end around, in between soon had the Buccaneers sitting on the Gators two-yard line. However Benjamin couldn't penetrate the Gator goal line stance and settled for a 20-yard field goal by Peter Butler.

But Glades Day was not to be denied. After returning the kickoff to their own 31-yard-line, Bueno called a quarterback sneak and rushed for 10 yards. Two plays later, running back Andy Fontaine broke loose for a 25-yard sprint that put the Gators on Benjamin's 33-yard-line.

With seven minutes remaining in the game, Bueno rushed up the middle, where Buccaneer defenders popped the ball out of Bueno's arms and into the end zone where teammate Richard Schiele fell on the ball for the score. Shelton threw a 11-yard pass to Chancey for the two-point conversion, giving the Gators a little breathing room.

Benjamin made a final attempt to score and marched the length of the field to the Gator 5-yard-line. But Glades Day's defense held and when the scoreboard clock ran out, it was the Gators who were victorious.

Although the Bucs out-passed the Gators 50 yards to 9 yards, the difference was in rushing, where Glades Day more than doubled Benjamin, 190 yards to 81 yards.

Buccaneer Mark Eisey carried 21 times for 72 yards while Gators Julio Rivas and Nacho Bueno carried 12 and 11 times for 56 and 51 yards respectively. Glades Day was penalized for 35 yards while Benjamin rolled up 65 yards in penalties. Each team earned ten first downs. The eighth ranked Gators improved their record to 4-0 while the Buccaneers dropped to 3-1.

BUCCANEER FULLBACK Mark Eisey rushes for a crucial 4th quarter first down that kept alive the Bucs' final scoring threat in the closing minutes of the game. The determined Gators held on to win however, edging Benjamin 8-3

Boca downs Crusaders

BELLE GLADE — The Christian Day School football team scored on the first play from scrimmage Friday afternoon in a game against Boca Raton Academy, then kicked an extra point to take a 7-0 lead only seconds into the game but from there on, it was the Bulldogs all the way.

The same play was attempted several other times later in the game but Boca wasn't having any of it and came away winners, 28-7.

Actually, the Crusaders were kept hyped up for a few minutes on the strength of their early success and held Boca on the first series of downs, forcing a punt from the Bulldogs 25 yard line on a fourth and 22 situation.

Ronnie Cameron gathered the ball in on the Crusader 33 for good field position but fumbled the ball away shortly after taking the punt. The Bulldogs penetrated to the Christian Day 20 but that was all a stiff Crusader defense would allow, forcing the ball over on downs there in a fourth and five situation.

Boca's defense, in turn, held for three downs and, with Kent Davis back to punt, the snap sailed over his head and Boca took over from the CDS 8, setting up a score for the Bulldogs on the next play. The PAT kick was no good but a flag on the play gave Boca another chance and a pass play was complete for eight points and Boca took the lead for good, eight minutes into the game.

The next score came with only seconds left in the first quarter and was set up with a Bulldog interception of a Morales pass at the Crusader 20. A Bulldog pass play was good on the next down, followed by the point-after kick and the Bulldogs led, 15-7.

The Crusaders were able to pick up two first downs after the following kickoff, grinding out yardage from their own 12 to their own 40, from where they punted out on a fourth and five situation.

Two plays later, Boca had a first down at the Christian Day 39 and four plays and another first down later, scored again, making the score 22-7 with less than a minute left in the half.

The Crusaders headed off the Boca offense twice in the third period by recovering two key Bulldog fumbles but the tide turned again in the waning seconds of the period when a Morales pass was picked off by a Boca defender on the Bulldog 47, setting up the final score of the game early in the fourth period. The kick was no good and Boca led, 28-7.

Boca threatened once more when another Morales pass was intercepted at the Crusader 14 but the defense held, along with some help from penalties assessed on the Bulldogs, and the Crusaders took over possession on their own 9 in another fourth down situation.

City to adopt budget

BELLE GLADE — The final hearing on the 1980-81 budget will be held by the city commission at 7:30 p.m. Monday, following in the wake of the first hearing last Thursday, when the only question concerned the hospital tax rates.

The hearing on the tentative budget was begun by Acting City Manager and Finance Director Frank Anderson, who explained the meaning of the columns of figures property owners received from County Property Appraiser Dave Reid's office.

The city's millage for the coming year has been set at 5.6, meaning homeowners will pay $8.60 for every thousand dollars their property is worth, minus any amount eligible for homestead exemption.

The budget for the coming year has been set at a total of $6.27 million, made up of a $4.35 million general fund and a $1.9 million water and sewer fund. The budget is expected to be adopted during the regular commission meeting following the hearing Monday.

Lady Crusaders win, lose at volleyball

BELLE GLADE — The Christian Day School girls volleyball team lost two games of three last week against Moore Haven.

The Terriers won the first game with a score of 15-11 but the Lady Crusaders bounced back in the second game to tie the score with a 15-8 win. In the tie-breaking game, the Crusaders jumped out ahead at the beginning but the Terriers came back and defeated them by a score of 17-15.

Week before last, the Christian Day team was led by seniors Joni Davis and Paula Anderson to a victory over Glades Day School.

The score of the first game of the match was 15-6. The second game was close until the end when the Crusaders pulled ahead and won, 15-11.

Other outstanding Crusaders were Kimberly Chambliss and Lisa Acres. The Gators were led by the serving of Teresa and Judy Austin. They were backed up by Kelly Teets and Cheryl Hooker.

Have farmers done anything for you lately? Probably not. At least, since your last meal. Figures developed by researchers with the USDA indicate that American farmers' production last year was high enough that each man, woman and child in the U.S. and in Russia the average farmer produced enough to feed only about 8 others. Not only is the American productivity important in keeping us all well fed (most too well) it's also significant in that it allows 86 out of every 100 people to work in areas outside food production. That makes possible the production of the wide variety of goods and services which constitute our unparalleled living standard. Keep it up farmers!

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

In Remembrance Of Me

For almost two thousand years the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper has been celebrated by Christians everywhere. Though variously interpreted by the churches, though administered with different ritual, it has always remained our unifying bond . . . the Communion of the Church with her Lord.

On World Wide Communion Sunday Christian congregations all over the globe will assemble to celebrate this Communion. Each will follow its own accustomed usage, exercising the right of religious freedom that the free peoples of the world treasure so highly. And as millions receive the Sacrament they will be conscious of the joyous faith that unites them with one another and with Christ.

This is a century of crisis in which those who treasure their spiritual heritage must stand together . . . must face with courage the alarming growth and ruthless power of an atheism dedicated to the overthrow of both freedom and religion.

Join your fellow Christians at The Lord's Table!

KEEPING THE FAITH

BY THE REV. JOE ED MCGAHEY
Community United Methodist Church

"How then shall they call upon Him in whom they have not believed? And show shall they believe in Him whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher?" Rom:10:14 NASB.

One of the strange controversies today is over what is called the Electronic Church. There is P.T.L., the 700 Club, Rex Humbard, Oral Roberts and others who are using the television media for preaching.

The big question asked, is whether they are a help or hindrance to the local church. Frankly, I do not even believe that is the most important word that would concern these programs. Now, as a local minister, I have a concern at this point, but it still cannot be my first concern.

The number one question is, do these programs carry the Gospel of Jesus Christ into homes across the land? Are there people who are hearing God's word that would not otherwise hear it? The answer to those two questions is a very big "Yes."

Not only is that so, but when I consider most of the television programs I become very thankful for those programs that present the Word of God. This is true, even though I do not always agree with everything they say, or with the way it is presented. For that matter I doubt that I agree with all my brother ministers who stand in the pulpits of Belle Glade every Sunday morning, but I appreciate them and I am very glad they are there. The truth of the matter is that there are still more people who are lost than who are really living in the Christian faith, and each Sunday morning there are many people who stay home than will be found in all of our churches. Some of these people are not able to go to church, but some are just too lazy and others just do not want to. If while they are not in some local church building, they turn to the Electronic Church as it is called, that is a lot better than much of what is on TV and it sure beats nothing at all in terms of worship.

Now, as for the money, many people who give to the support of the local church, also give to TV ministries. I find that few people do all their giving to these TV ministries and most people give to them over and above that which they give to their local church. Giving to one's local church is a matter of Christian Stewardship. It is a responsibility that every Christian should feel. I personally do not feel that the local churches would be getting all the millions that go to various TV ministries, even if they were done away with.

On the other hand, I want to say these ministries, no matter how good they may be, are not a substitute for being an active part of a local church. We become members of the "Body of Christ" as we find our place in that local body—local church and start working and worshipping together with other Christians. I believe it is impossible to fully function as part of the Body of Christ.

Finally, we need to remember that even though the TV ministries bring into our homes a lot of Christian teaching, preaching and music, we need fellowship with other Christians. We need to worship with other people and we need to share person-to-person with others. The Electronic Church on the TV ministries ought to be looked upon as part of that total ministry of the church of Jesus Christ, not a substitute for the local body of Christ—the community church.

GCCHS holds open house

BELLE GLADE—More than 500 people attended the first open house of the year at Glades Central Community High School.

"Parents were entertained by 'Solid Gold', a jazz-rock ensemble under the direction of Jan Latner and Willie Pyrom.

"Parents of seniors were given information concerning upcoming tests and various types of expenses they may incur.

Anita Bryant will sing a sacred concert at 8 p.m. Friday at the John Boy Auditorium in Clewiston.

The concert is being presented by the Glades Area Christian Women's Association.

There is no charge for tickets but there is limited seating and only 800 tickets will be offered. Reservations may be made by calling Baker's Rex Drugs at (813) 983-8119, or the John Boy Auditorium at (813) 983-8204. Deadline for picking up tickets will be at 7 p.m. the night of the concert at the auditorium ticket booth. Any remaining tickets will be given on a first come, first served basis.

Miss Bryant's career started on local television at the age of ten in her home state of Oklahoma, followed by appearances on national television, record sales, television commercial activities, including being spokeswoman for the Florida Citrus Growers and eight consecutive Christmas shows with Bob Hope, entertaining troops overseas, and appearances at the White House.

She has been appointed to the Council of Trustees of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge; is the youngest person ever elected to the Oklahoma Hall of Fame; has received the Guardian Award from the VFW and the Al Johnson Gold Medal Award. More recently, she received the 1978 Veterans of Foreign Wars Citizenship Gold Medal and Citation Award.

Miss Bryant has become embroiled over the past few years in the national controversy over gay rights.

making engagements around the country opposing the movement after she spearheaded the passage of an anti-gay rights ordinance referendum in Miami.

"It is in the spirit of love and meekness (Galatians 5:22-23 and Galatians 6:2) from the Holy Bible (Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ)," said Mrs. Jenny Miller, "that the Glades Area Christian Women's Fellowship invitation of January 1980 to Anita Bryant to appear in concert in the Glades area."

Revival starts Monday

The First Baptist Church of South Bay is sponsoring a Revival Monday, October 13 through Friday October 17 at 7:30 each evening.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Thomas Ellington, Director of Missions to the Orange Blossom Association in Avon Park.

There will be musical accompaniment each evening and a nursery will be open to all small children.

GCCH wins award

BELLE GLADE—The school beautification award sponsored by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce has been presented to Glades Central Community High School for the second consecutive month, according to Sonja Lutz.

The award is based on the upkeep of the school yard and premises of the campus. The judging is done on a monthly basis by the local community garden clubs and the school receiving the trophy most frequently during the year will be awarded an annual trophy.

THE PIPE TUNNEL is a world all its own offering seclusion from the outside world. Once inside a child can be a pilot, a deep sea diver or any of a thousand other people.

fantasyland....

THE ENDLESS wonders of a sandbox may take a child to the Sahara, the wind blown surface of Venus or even Miami Beach.

CHILDREN'S IMAGINATION slide into the world of the unknown, encountering countless adventures in their minds.

For the adults among us, a weekend trip to the "magical wonders of Walt Disney World" offers a chance to escape the realities of daily life and unleash latent imaginations.

But as every child knows, his next adventure is as near as the backyard or neighborhood playground. The sand blown surface of Venus, the peak of Mt. Everest, the deepest depths of the Mariannas trench or the uncharted wilds of South America are just a hop, skip and tumble away at the sandboxes, gym sets and pipe tunnels that are part of the Community Methodist Church kindergarten and day care "escape center" in Belle Glade.

But imagination isn't "for kids only." Next time you're looking for a weekend retreat to get away from it all, look in your backyard first.

THE MONKEY BARS and gym sets allow children to become the mountain climbers, athletes and astronauts of tomorrow.

Deadline pressure unique to journalism profession

If you've spent any time at all talking to a journalist undoubtedly comments like "I haven't missed a deadline in two years," or the opposite, "I always miss the deadline on Monday," keep popping up.

Although the owners and publishers somehow seem to think deadlines are essential to journalistic quality, which in fact they are, the actual motivation behind deadline pressure is advertising dollars. The quicker the paper is on the streets, the more the people see the smiling faces of Ronald McDonald, Joe Politico and the local used car salesman. This is the Deadline Theorem. The amount of money spent for advertising at a newspaper is directly proportional to the deadline pressure received.

Although the Deadline Theorem is unique to the field of journalism, it is interesting to wonder what might happen if it applied to other professions as well.

Take the medical profession. If those general practitioners and 101 Various Specialists were allotted only a limited time period to perform their surgical tasks, this being necessary to hold down hospital administration costs, the result would be chaos.

Imagine lying on one of those sterile stretchers in the hospital corridor, waiting for your tonsillectomy in between the hysterectomy from across the hall and the double hernia from the next floor.

And if complications arise, forget it.

"Doctor, there's an infection on these tonsils. Can we get a deadline extension?"

"Sorry, but we've got to get that double hernia in and out of here in fifteen minutes. We've got a biggie with a coronary bypass and he promised us all his accounts if we get him out of here by five o'clock. Finish that tonsillectomy in the corridor."

The same holds true for the legal profession. If deadlines were imposed on courtroom cases, lawyers would zip through the divorces and drug busts to save time for the big money clients.

Raisin' cane

By Wayne Wallace

"I'd like to review this case more closely."

"But your honor I've got the Gonzoni case coming up in ten minutes, and I promised the Gonzoni brothers I'd have them back on the streets by the end of today's session."

"Well, since the Gonzonis are regular clients and have a long standing account with us, I'll forego the review."

Case dismissed.

The Deadline Theorem can be applied to almost every vocation, from engineer to garbage collector. Doctors and lawyers just happen to be the most visible professions in our society, thanks to television.

So the next time Lou Grant bawls out a new reporter for missing a deadline, remember it's not only journalistic quality he's trying to preserve, it's his paycheck.

Deltas presents Sepia Fashion Fair

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Alumna Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., will sponsor the "Sepia Fashion Fair" on Wednesday, Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Lake Shore Middle School Gymnasium.

"Sepia Fashion Fair," a traveling fashion show produced by the Hamilton Vogue-Esquire Models of Chicago, Ill.

Since its beginning in Little Rock, Ark., in 1959, the show has traveled to over sixty key cities and produces over 150 shows throughout each year.

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., is one of the many sponsors who work in the sponsorship of "Sepia Fashion Fair," bringing the show to many cities across the United States.

Mrs. Lois Lewis, a member of the Glades Alumna Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., said the main trust of the Sepia Fashion Fair is to give exposure to aspiring young models, both male and female and to help raise funds for various charitable organizations.

Mrs. Lewis said persons interested in attending the Fashion Fair may purchase tickets from any member of the Glades Alumna Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority at a cost of $5 for students and $10 for adults.

The Fashion Fair will be held in conjunction with the Chapters first Miss Jabberwock contest presently under way to be held on Saturday, Nov. 1.

Mrs. Lewis said the tickets are good for both affairs.

All proceeds from the "Sepia Fashion Fair" and the Miss Jabberwock Contest will be used to establish a scholarship fund for deserving students to aide them with their college education, said Mrs. Lewis.

Toledo—Garcia plans November wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Toledo of 217 N.W. Ave. F. in Belle Glade announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeannie to Dr. Onelio Garcia, Jr. of Jacksonville.

Dr. Garcia is the son of Dr. Onelio and Julia Garcia of Miami. The couple are planning a Nov. 29 wedding at St. Ann's Catholic Church in West Palm Beach, a reception will follow at the Helen Wilkes Hotel in West Palm.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Glades Central High School, North Technical LPN School, and graduated from Palm Beach Jr. College where she studied to be a registered nurse. She is currently employed in the intensive Care Unit at Community Hospital of the Palm Beaches.

The bridegroom-elect is a graduate of Guadalajara Medical school. He is currently employed at the University Hospital in Jacksonville.

Missionary Conference

The Missionary Department of the St. James A.M.E. Church, Mrs. Claudia Mae Hanna, president, recently attended the program of the Women's Missionary Society of the South Florida Conference, Eleventh Episcopal District, African Methodist Episcopal Church at St. Paul A.M.E. Church in Fort Pierce, on Oct. 4.

Members attending included Mrs. Hanna, Mrs. Elsie Thomas, Mrs. Hermene Moutrie, Mrs. Deloris Robertson, Mrs. Mattie Butler and Miss Tabitha Josey.

One of the highlights of the program was a luncheon given in honor of Mrs. Le Ester Williams.

Choir Anniversary

The Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church choir number one recently celebrated their 55th choir anniversary.

Program participants included Roy L. Singletary, Mrs. Sadie Thompson, Mrs. Reba Battle, Mrs. Lois Atkins, Mrs. Ada Davis, and Mrs. Pearl Wilson.

Many local choirs fellow-shipped with Shiloh in celebrating this occasion.

Morning Star Celebrates

The Friendly Morning Star Baptist Church of Runyon held their choir anniversary Sunday, Sept. 28.

The anniversary was a beautiful and spirit filled occasion.

Tea Sponsored

The Missionary Department of St. James A.M.E. Church sponsored a Missionary, Peace, Love, and Happiness Tea.

Mrs. Mae Johnson served as the Mistress of Ceremonies, and Willie Jordan served as the devotional leader.

Program participants included the junior choir of the church, Mrs. Winnie Bell Guyton and Mrs. Henrietta Allen recited and dramatized the two version of the 23rd Psalm, Mrs. Ellie Thornton, Mrs. Odessa Gannon, served as soloists.

Other participants included Mrs. Hermene Moutrie, Mrs. Claudia Mae Hanna, Mrs. Dorothy Cross, Mrs. Rosa Ransom, Mrs. Henrietta Allen and Mrs. Elsie Thomas.

Mrs. Patricia Wallace served as the speaker.

Tenth commandment

The New Macedonia Baptist Church will present the Tenth Commandments Friday, Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. at the church.

Carpenters celebrate sixtieth anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. O. Daniel Carpenter, 1779 E. Main St., Pahokee, celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary September 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Carpenter in Belle Glade.

Their daughters and their husbands Mr. and Mrs. Vance Dendana, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Borgnas, both of the gathering of the Carpenter's family and friends. In addition to three children they have seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Carpenter's three sisters, Mrs. John Dulaney of Belle Glade, Mrs. Duncan Padgett of Pahokee and Mrs. Ralph Grimes of Canal Point also attended. More than 100 guests were present at the affair.

Mr. Carpenter was the founder of the Carpenter Insurance and Real Estate Agency of Pahokee and Belle Glade. They moved here from Tulsa, Oklahoma in 1935 to be near Mrs. Carpenter's mother and father, the Rev. and Mrs. C.A. Shive, who were among the early settlers of the Glades region, arriving here in 1921.

Dramatic dressing for cocktails is perky, and can be worn either long or short.

Four ply silk quilans with symmetrical flounced hemline, and topped in ruffles in black and white.

Matching puff of a hat, all by Yves St. Laurent. This and more can be seen at the Sepia Fashion Fair.

Beautification slogan winners

BELLE GLADE—Christian Day School student Carlos Soler won the recent slogan contest for the Belle Glade Beautification Committee's cleanup next month in November.

Soler and the second and third place winners, Lee McKenzie of Glades Central and Jimmy Hager of Christian Day School, received recognition from the Beautification Committee Tuesday morning for their entries in the annual slogan contest.

Each of the slogans entered began with the words, "Tidy Tim says," and Soler continued with, "Have a heart, do your part. Keep Belle Glade clean."

Soler, McKenzie and Hager received awards from Ed Foley Jr., chairman of the Beautification Committee and slogan chairman, Cleanup Month Chairman Elfre Grief and Public Relations Chairman Gladys Ganzy.

Foley said the cleanup month will be kicked off with a parade at 10 a.m. on Nov. 1 and a cleanup day which will begin when the parade ends.

Foley said the committee is still looking for parade entrants and said those in the parade, and any others who want to join in, will begin picking up trash after the parade breaks up at Lake Shore Middle School, where Foley is principal.

Dr. Grear said a hot dog and soft drink will be paid for each full bag of trash turned in.

Dr. Grear noted the entire Junior High School Relations Council is assisting in the cleanup effort and the parade.

Foley said anyone wanting to enter the parade need only contact the Chamber. The city Public Works Department is cooperating by placing dumpsters to take all the trash picked up during the day.

Foley said certificates will be offered throughout the month for improvements at homes, businesses and schools, and to add an incentive, some of the community's hardware and paint stores are offering discounts on material and supplies needed to participate.

Miss Jeannie Toledo Homecoming queen selected Friday

The Glades Day Gators are gearing up for homecoming, which is scheduled for October 10 at the Belle Glade campus.

Highlighting the event will be the Glades Day vs. LaBelle football game at eight and the crowning of the homecoming queen at half-time.

Also on tap for the evening are a pick-up parade around the school's football field at 7:45 p.m. and a dance following the game.

There are three homecoming queen candidates: Beth Adams, Debbie Hall and Diana Morgan. The queen is selected by a vote of students in grades nine through twelfth.

During the crowning ceremony the homecoming finalist will be escorted by Glades Day football players Nacho Buzon, Mark Allen and Greg Chancery.

Beth Adams is the daughter of County Judge and Mrs. Don Adams of Pahokee. She is a senior and active in softball, basketball, band, majorettes, pep club, Beta club and National Honor Society.

Debbie Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Hall of Pahokee. She is a senior and active in softball, basketball, cheerleading, pep club and Beta club.

Diana Morgan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jetson Morgan of Belle Glade. She is a senior and active in cheerleading, softball and pep club.
